To whom it may concern:

I am an author and speaker who addresses issues of cybersecurity, terrorism, and other security matters. Previously, I had served for more than 20 years as an FBI Special Agent.

I was introduced to Ron Gross about 4 years ago through an attorney colleague, during which time Ron was working to capitalize a very large project involving stabilization of the electrical grid. I was motivated to assist Ron with this project, as I have a strong interest in helping to protect our national infrastructure. Since our initial meeting, I have had multiple interactions with Ron on various financing strategies and opportunities, during which time I have found him to be creative and focused on developing solutions for his clients.

Ron's 45 years of business experience uniquely positions him within his industry. I have found him to provide solid information, as well as being entrepreneurial and responsive to inquiries. Likewise, Ron is talented at strategic planning and has demonstrated impressive negotiating skills. I have also found Ron to be supportive of others, seeking ways to introduce synergic relationships that help build businesses through sound financial solutions.

Over the course of our business relationship, I have engaged with Ron on two separate projects and would strongly recommend his services to anyone seeking a financial solution to support their venture or enterprise.

If you have any questions concerning my experience and endorsement of Ron, please do not hesitate in contacting me.

Sincerely,

John Iannarelli
